Come back to what works. Build what lasts.

Story-driven talks on purpose, focus, and building what lasts — for leaders, teams, and communities navigating the conversations that matter most.

ABOUT LOGAN

Logan Cook is a speaker, author, and founder based in Austin, Texas, whose work returns again and again to a single conviction: people come alive when they stop living divided — when who they are and how they live come back into alignment.

At 24, Logan builds his life and his work around Complex Dysautonomia, a complicated nervous system condition that means he navigates daily life in a wheelchair. It's not a footnote to his message — it's part of where the message comes from. Alignment, for Logan, isn't a metaphor he picked up; it's a discipline he lives, and it gives his work on purpose, focus, and building what lasts a weight that's hard to fake.

Through Compass Results, the leadership and personal-development company he founded, Logan helps corporate teams and associations name their real motive, cut the distractions stealing their focus, and build something that lasts. He is the author of the forthcoming book The Point of Purpose: A Return to Alignment, and brings more than 500 hours of live teaching and eight years of building to the stage.

In a separate and more personal body of work, Logan speaks on one of the hardest conversations many people carry: the tension between faith and sexuality. As a person of deep faith, as well as being openly gay, he speaks to build bridges rather than walls — offering communities, families, and individuals a posture of compassion, honesty, and understanding where there is too often only division. It's the same message he brings everywhere, applied to more tender ground: stop performing a fractured self, and come back into alignment with what's true.

Logan is completing his certification through Maxwell Leadership and has studied speaking under Roddy Galbraith, leadership under Mark Cole, coaching under Valorie Burton, and business and sales under Chris Robinson. Whether the room is a sales kickoff or a hard conversation about faith and identity, his style is the same: warm, direct, grounded in real experience, and free of hype.

SIGNATURE TALKS · 15-45 MIN SESSIONS

KEYNOTE · 15-45 MIN

Authenticity: Drop the Mask, Reclaim Your Power

We're taught that getting ahead means performing — projecting the right image and hiding whatever doesn't fit the room. But every mask quietly strips away the very influence we're reaching for. This talk shows why authenticity is the single greatest source of influence a leader has — and how to lead, sell, and build from it.

KEYNOTE · 15-45 MIN

Focus: The Real Reason You Haven't Finished

Most goals don't die from lack of drive — they die from distraction. This talk names the real culprit behind stalled projects and unfinished plans, and hands your team a framework for cutting distraction at its root so the important work actually gets done.

KEYNOTE · 15-45 MIN

Resistance & Redirection: When to Push, When to Pivot

Grit and persistence are real — but they're also badly misunderstood. This talk exposes the lies we tell ourselves about pushing through, and gives leaders a clear way to decide what deserves more effort and what deserves a redirect — so momentum goes where it counts.

ALSO SPEAKING ON

FAITH & BRIDGE-BUILDING

Between Faith & Sexuality: Building Bridges

A talk for communities, families, and individuals navigating one of the hardest conversations there is. Speaking as a person of deep faith and an openly gay man, Logan works to build understanding and compassion where there is too often only division — opening honest dialogue rather than closing it.

"The honesty and authenticity made it easy for the audience to trust the message. Great structure — three key points repeated throughout, so the audience gets the final message."
